

Phillips Academy observing King Day

Phillips Exeter Academy is observing Martin Luther King Jr Day with a variety of programs. Free and open to the public are:

Thursday, Jan. 16: A vocal and dance tribute to King by Exeter students at 7 p.m. in Fisher Theater, Tan Lane.

Friday, Jan. 17: A performance of "I Have A Dream," an instrumental and choral work composed by PEA music instructor Randy Armstrong, at 7 p.m. in Phillips Church on the corner of Tan Lane and Front Street.

Armstrong's recording group, Unu Mondo! will join with academy students to perform "I Have A Dream."

There will a keynote address Jan. 17 from 9-10:15 a.m. in the Assembly Hall by the Reverend

Samuel D. Proctor, Martin Luther King, Jr. professor emeritus, Rutgers University. He is a former administrator with the Peace Corps and Office of Economic Opportunity.
